Medical and Nurturing Missions in Guyana, South America

Leader Training School Opens

New Operation Guyana offices in the Pegasus Hotel.

Operation Guyana Bible Institute opened its doors for the first time on May 3 with an initial class of three students.

The school is an integral part of the year's activities which include six medical missions, a summer camp, about a dozen Vacation Bible Schools and building a new church building.

"We are very excited," exclaimed Steve DeLoach, director of Operation Guyana, "about where this school will take us. We have several other classes scheduled throughout the summer."

DeLoach has been busy with getting the school off the ground and transferring materials to the new location.

Hackney Financial Series Finale Posted To Website

So, now you know you don't have to be rich to do financial planning to help Operation Guyana, according to Ted Hackney, a financial planner from Jonesboro, Ark.

He also explained some of the vehicles for that financial planning in the article posted on the website last month.

Patients wait to see medical staff at our permanent clinic.

Now he reviews the different types of vehicles and how to use them in the final part of his series.

Remember, Operation Guyana is not in the business of giving financial advice. You should consult your own advisor before making any investment decision.

God has blessed us with many exciting opportunities this year: six medical teams, the camp which will have a very good staff/camper ratio, the building of a new church building.

This past few months have taken 20,000 miles of travel, a lot of planning, prayer and perspiration to get the school off the ground, but it is paying off in a big way.

Thanks to all of you for what you do for us. We could not do it without you.

Dr. Rudy Wray, a dean at Sunset International Bible Institute, has been in Guyana for an evaluation visit. He also taught a class in Ephesians while there.

Operation Guyana has made application for affiliation with Sunset. That application is pending, but is expected to be acted on in the near future.

"The efforts, the travel, everything we have done since the first of the year to set this school up is paying off in a big way," DeLoach explained. "We have six medical missions teams coming this summer and we plan to use instructors from those groups for special classes."
